HIGHLIGHTS

Sara Correia was just 13 when she won Grande Noite do Fado, a major Fado festival and singing competition. Soon after, she was invited to perform at one of Lisbon's most important Fado venues. "Sara Correia", her debut album was released by Universal Music Portugal and produced by Diogo Clemente. In Portugal, the critics praised her debut and unanimously acclaimed the one they called "the greatest voice of the new generation". The record earned her two nominations at the Play — Portuguese Music Awards and Best New Artist at Radio Festival awards. Her sophomore album "Do Coração" was released in September 2020. Produced and developed in partnership with Diogo Clemente it features the singles "Chegou Tão Tarde", "Dizer Não", "Porquê do Fado" and also "Solidão" a duet with António Zambujo. The record won the 2021 Play Award for "Best Fado Album". Sara Correia's consistent work and talent led her to a Latin Grammy nomination for "Do Coração", as the Best Portuguese Language Roots Album.

PRESS QUOTES

"Occasionally, a new voice reminds us that traditional Fado is still very much alive. (...) Sara Correia is such a voice."
* SONGLINES

"She says she was born to do this and it's difficult to doubt it."
* PÚBLICO

"The room explodes with applause when Sara Correia performs."
VISÃO

"Another thing that Sara Correia doesn't lack: loads of personality."
OBSERVADOR

"Her self-titled debut album showcases her talent as a performer, with a powerful and charismatic voice that projects the intensity, essence and passion of Fado."
WORLD MUSIC CENTRAL.ORG

"Her voice has a lot of power and there is no doubt that Sara Correia has serious talent."
ENTERTAINMENT FOCUS

"Her husky alto-contralto voice still projects the intensity of the roots of the music she grew up listening to."
